The growing threat of the neo-Nazi BNP has meant the election of five BNP councillors in the space of twelve months and the threat of others being elected at 1st May local government elections.

Racism is on the rise. Last year, there was a 20 per cent rise in racist attacks in Britain. These included many brutal racist assaults and murders of asylum seekers in Sunderland and elsewhere.

This situation will worsen if the BNP gain further seats in areas they are targeting.

United against racism and the neo-Nazis, we can defeat them!

campaign statement

unite to stop the BNP

We are deeply concerned at the election of British National Party (BNP) members to local councils in Burnley, Blackburn and Calderdale, and the relatively high votes they have received in other parts of Britain. The BNP are standing 219 candidates in the May 2003 local elections.

We believe the politics of the extreme right pose a serious threat to our democratic values. The incitement to racism and racial violence by the BNP has alarmed people of goodwill across the country. We are committed to the widest possible unity against the BNP and their attempts to whip up racism, hatred and division in local communities.

We stand with the vast majority of electors who, we strongly believe do not share the vision of the extreme right, and call on them to vote to stop the BNP.

The Coalition Against Racism — Unite to Stop the BNP Campaign is a national tripartite partnership between the TUC, local communities and the National Assembly Against Racism, formed to defeat the BNP.
