The fascist British National Party (BNP) polled record votes and fielded an unprecedented number of candidates in the May 2007 elections. Next May it will target the London Assembly, having narrowly missed gaining a seat by a mere 0.1% in 2004. It will also aim to increase its council seats around the country.

This fringe outlines the effective strategy necessary to defeat the BNP, bringing together a broad alliance of the MPs, MEPS, trade unionists, Black, Muslim, Jewish, and LGBT communities together with all those who oppose the BNP to turn out the anti-fascist vote and challenge the BNP's racist politics.
